WESTERLY PARADERS DEFY RAIN

Enthusiastic Send-Off for Young Patriots Drafted for New Army—Formal Exercises Held in Town Hall—Eloquent Address by Hon. S. H. Davis—Collation, Inspiring Music, Hearty Cheers—Veteran Soldiers Pay Honor to the Boys of '17.

The heavy rainfall at the appointed hour for the demonstration in honor of the young men called to colors under the selective service law, Monday evening, interfered materially with the number of spectators and the consequent enthusiasm that would have prevailed, were weather conditions more favorable. But the parade went on in spite of the rain and former in the following order:

Cordon of Police, Chief Thomas E. Brown.
Westerly Band, Charles O. Gavitt, Leader.
President Maurice W. Flynn and the Members of the Westerly Town Council, Major Charles F. Williams of Stonington, Connecticut, Home Guard, Lieutenant John F. Champin, Medical Reserves, Selectmen of the Town of Stonington.
Company C, Pawcatuck, Connecticut Home Guard.
Captain Shelby C. Nichols.
Westerly Constabulary, Captain Chas. H. Ledward.
Sanitation Corps, Dr. Frank I. Payne.
The Guests of Honor, the Drafted Young Men, with George E. Seward in Command.
Westerly Boy Scouts, Scoutmaster Fowler.

As the parade passed the town hall, the marching body were reviewed by the members of the town council, selectmen of Stonington, Major Charles F. Williams of the Connecticut Home Guard, veterans of the Civil and Spanish wars, and local representatives in the general assemblies of Rhode Island and Connecticut. The paraders moved over the selected line of march and seemed to be pleased in doing their bit to make the send-off a success, regardless of the rain.

At the conclusion of the parade, the exercises that were scheduled to be held in Wilcox park were transferred to the town hall. Here the band rendered selections, and Hon. Samuel H. Davis delivered an inspiring address, in which he said:

Hon. H. S. Davis Address:—In his address Hon. S. H. Davis said: No honor that has ever come to me has been more highly prized than that of speaking in honor of the men who are now answering their country's call to arms, in this hour of their country's need.

Doubtless the first gathering of this kind ever held in this community was that called by the early settlers of Westerly on the 17th of April, 1776, twenty years before the Declaration of Independence, when a little group of patriotic young men were sent starting for the Battle of Lake Champlain in the French and Indian war.

Then Old England and America, as today, were brothers in arms for a common defense. When in the Revolution our fathers used the standard of American Independence, practically every able-bodied man in Westerly and Stonington answered to his country's call, and banded whose alliance we now proudly claim, sent her gallant sons to fight under the Stars and Stripes. At the call of Abraham Lincoln Westerly and Stonington gave their full quota in defense of the Union, and some of the men of '61 and '65 who fought under our national banner, in order that no star might be plucked from its field of blue have come here tonight with whitened hair and faltering step and their honors of sixty years to pay their tribute of gratitude to the boys of 1917 who are laying their splendid sacrifice of young manhood upon the altar of the American flag.

When again in '98 William McKinley called for the young men of the nation to act the part of the Good Samaritan in binding up the wounds of Cuba who had been robbed and beaten and left to perish by the wayside, our boys 200 strong responded, and two at least of the gallant number now hold commissions of Major in our new national army which is going forth to bind up the wounds of Belgium and Serbia, who like the man that journeyed from Jerusalem to Jericho have also fallen among thieves. Others of the Spanish War Veterans are training our home guard, local constabulary and ambulance companies, that they may stand for the defense of our country and the cause of our wounded soldier the emergency arise.

And what shall I say of the Boys of 1917, the flower of our young manhood, who are now laying aside the comforts and blessings of home, their plans for education, their personal ambition for place and power, and the dearest ties that bind them to family and friends in order that they may answer their country's call for her defense and for the defense of righteousness both in the homeland and in lands across the seas?

It is to these, our sons and brothers, who have carried their country's banner as they marched today, who are consecrating themselves, their sacred honor and their lives, to its defense, wherever it shall be unfurled, that we now bring our loving tribute of gratitude and honor.

As you pledge your allegiance to the nation we pledge our allegiance to you. As you follow the flag on the march or in the thick of the fight, we shall follow you with our hearts, our hopes and our prayers. As you stand by your guns in foreign lands we shall stand by those you are leaving in the homeland.

As you battlefield you seek to give aid and comfort to a wounded comrade, we shall seek through the Red Cross, and by every means in our power to give aid and comfort to those who, though their hearts be breaking, are laying their dearest treasure on the altar of their country.

Till the end of this cruel war, till the enemies of liberty are crushed, till the champions of righteousness triumph and their shout of victory is borne across the seas, let us who remain at home consecrate all that we have and all that we are and all that we can do to the service of our gallant defenders, to the care and protection of their loved ones, to the nation and its allies, which they serve and to the flag for the honor of which they are making this great sacrifice. While we are seeking to crush the military power of the enemy, may we demean ourselves on the battlefield and in the affairs of state that the nations we would overcome may find something of inspiration and uplift in the sense of honor in our standards of justice, and in our generous treatment of a fallen foe. It is not because the American flag stands for more of justice and honor and righteousness than is represented by any other national emblem that most of the great nations of earth are now looking to it for succor and deliverance?

So while as a Christian nation we are engaged in the most awful conflict of history, may we keep in mind that we are fighting for the world's permanent peace. As we bid you God-speed we breathe a prayer that His spirit may brood over you and protect you on the battlefields of Europe and return you triumphantly and safely to the arms of loved ones; but that if fall you must, you fall at the post of duty, with face to the foe and that your sacrifice may be for the world's uplift.

As you follow the stars on their field of blue may you by faith behold the Star of Bethlehem. And when Old Glory and the flags of our Allies shall float victoriously over every battlefield and over the capitals of all the nations at war, may we behold the banner of the Prince of Peace unfurled, above them.

With what more fitting words could I close this address than that inspiring stanza of Cardinal O'Connell, "Lift high the Cross, unfurl the flag. Forever may they stand United in our hearts and hopes, God and our native land."

At the conclusion of the address, and while the band played on, a substantial collation was served to the drafted young men, by the Women's Relief Corps, of Budlong and Hancock Grand Army posts. At every available point on the parade route refreshments were served, and the service to country was fully appreciated by the townspeople.

Several hundred persons interested in the sport attended the day pigeon shoot of the Narragansett Gun club at Koonceek Inn. Over $100 in cash prizes were distributed among the winners. There were four events of 25 birds each, and the 15 crack shots who qualified for the finals were divided into three classes. Curtis of the Pale Face Gun club of Newton Highlands, Mass., won the tournament championship and a purse of $25, with a score of 94. The winners of the other events were as follows:

Class A—First, Griffith, 93; second, Barstow, 91; third, E. Bowler, 89; fourth, W. C. Smith, 87.
Class B—First, Dillon, 88; second, Snow, 87; third, Lester, fourth, Reuter, 85.
Class C—First, Trumbull, 85; second, Snow, Reuter and Lister were tied for second place, with a total of 87 birds. In the shoot-off Snow got 24, Lister 22 and Reuter 21.

Class C—First, Knight, 73; second, Austin, third, Power, fourth, La-compte, fifth, W. Chapman. In this event Austin, Potter and Lacomete were tied for second money with a total of 71 birds each. By agreement they split the purse of $15.
The committee in charge of the shoot was composed of H. H. Robinson, Louis J. Reuter, Nathan Reed, J. Albert Bandette, Charles E. Morrill, Robert Eldred and William C. McNeil. W. A. Chapman and A. H. Chapman of Westerly were cashiers for the shoot. These clubs were represented: Narragansett Gun club, South County Rod and Gun club, Westerly, Providence Gun club, Pale Face Gun club, New London Gun club and Boston Gun club.

As a result of a fall from an automobile, Mrs. William A. Peacock, of Minerva avenue, Lonsdale, sister-in-law of Rev. Joseph L. Peacock, II, was taken to the Memorial hospital in Pawcatuck early Monday morning, and died soon afterwards from the injuries received.

Mr. and Mrs. Peacock had entertained their home during the evening, Robert and Albert Heron of Pawcatuck, and a little after midnight in the house, they took their guests home. Mr. Peacock then turned the limousine towards home and after going a short distance, Mrs. Peacock, who had been seated beside her husband, moved back the divided front seat and stepped toward the seat in the rear of the car. One of her feet caught in a strap, and she fell against the left side door. This door had been closed, but evidently was not locked, as it swung open when Mrs. Peacock's body fell against it and she was thrown into the street.

The car was stopped and when Mr. Peacock reached his wife she was unconscious. He placed her in the car and took her to the hospital. She sustained a compound fracture of the skull and hospital physicians had no hope of her recovery. Mrs. Peacock was the daughter of Henry W. Wat-jen of Pawcatuck.

At the annual meeting of the trustees of the Westerly Memorial and Library association, these officers were elected: Charles Perry, president; William D. Hoxie, vice president; Charles P. Cottrell, secretary; James M. Pendleton, treasurer. Joseph L. Peacock was reappointed librarian. The only change in the staff is the appointment of Miss Carrie Arnold, to have charge of the new library department, to succeed Miss Sally E. Coy, who has been adding library of the department since the resignation of Mrs. Wilcox, nee Kennedy. This change was made that Miss Coy could continue the work of installing the Library of Congress cards. Arthur M. Cottrell and Arthur Perry were appointed to be committed to change the lighting system in the library. The annual report of the librarian told in detail of the benefit of the library to the community, and its gradual increase in usefulness and efficiency.

Sunday morning five young men came down a cross street in a Buick and just before reaching Elm street, left the car. It was supposed by the residents of the street that they had gone to a garage to summon aid for fire trouble, as the right forward tire seemed to be flat. The car stood there from 11 in the morning until evening, and then notification was sent to the police, and the car was taken to a local garage under the direction of Police Sergeant West. Up to Monday afternoon no claimant for the car had appeared and the police are inclined to the belief that the car was stolen and then abandoned. The right forward tire was completely ground through and the car had been driven on the rim for a considerable distance, judging from the condition of the wheel rim. The car is of 1917 model and bears Massachusetts registry number 33362.

The annual financial meeting of the town of Stonington, was called to order in the borough Monday evening. In deference to the desire of residents of Pawcatuck, and the selectmen and other town officers to participate in the demonstration in Westerly in honor of the men drafted under the selective service law, the meeting was adjourned for one week. There was a general request for this change in advance of the time scheduled for the meeting, not only from Pawcatuck, but all sections of the town as well.

While Mr. and Mrs. A. Clifford Holdsworth, of Westerly, were riding in their roadster, Saturday night, they were struck by a large touring car driven by George L. Green of Waterbury. It was a head-on collision and occurred near the Wilcox curve, not far from Guilbault. The impact smashed the glass in the windshield and Mrs. Holdsworth was partially thrown through the frame. She sustained severe cuts in the head and face, was severely bruised, but escaped serious injury. The Holdsworth roadster was badly wrecked and a forward wheel in the Waterbury car was smashed.

Mr. Holdsworth observed that the oncoming car was being unsteadily operated and was bearing to the left, and in the hope of getting out of danger, drove his car some two feet to the right of the cement road, and was in that location when the collision occurred. Mr. Holdsworth declares that Mr. Green was wholly to blame for the mishap. In this he is sustained by J. Fred Barber who happened to be driving his car behind the Holdsworth car, and brought Mr. and Mrs. Holdsworth to Westerly.

Frederick L. Avery, a freight conductor of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, and for many years a resident of Stonington, was struck in reaching the bridge that crosses above the railroad tracks near the Mt. Bowdoin station, in Dorchester, Mass., Saturday afternoon. His body arrived in Stonington, Sunday noon. Mr. Avery leaves a widow and two children. He was a member of Stonington Lodge, No. 56, Ancient Order United Workmen.

In the superior court at Kingston, Monday, Judge John W. Sweeney announced that the criminal calendar would start Wednesday and that no civil cases would be reached until the completion of criminal cases. The civil cases assigned for trial in Westerly are: Guaranty Food company vs. James W. Burke; Wilbur G. Cheever vs. Albert L. Castuit; Joseph Gabrielle vs. Joseph Olinard; Jeremiah J. Haggerty vs. Rhoda M. Brooks; the Washington Trust company vs. Mary Olinard; John Olinard vs. Louis Gentile; Mary Antonia Aquinoboro vs. Joseph Gabrielle; Dwight R. Stillman et al. vs. Ed. Monti et al.; Arthur Fraquelli vs. George C. Moore; T. B. Segar & Co. vs. Elmer S. Burdick; David David vs. Archibald McNeil; et John Galluccio vs. Louis Gentile; Rose A. Burdick et al. vs. New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company, and motion for surety in this case was granted for two weeks.

Congressman Kennedy, of Rhode Island, has introduced a resolution providing for the erection on public ground in Washington of a monument in memory of Sisters of Charity who served as nurses in hospitals and on battlefields during the Civil war. The Ladies Auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians has long sought to have such a memorial erected in Arlington cemetery. It is believed less difficulty will be encountered if some other site is suggested. Mr. Kennedy believes the resolution will prevail.

The Westerly Catholic club has purchased a regulation United States Service flag, which will be flown from the staff at the club rooms for a short while and then be given permanently to the place in the home. The flag is of red bunting with white centre, or field; and in this field is placed a blue star for every member of the club who has entered the military service of the state. In the centre is a large star representing Leo Gaffney, Narragansett Gun club, South County, enlisted in the Fifth Connecticut Infantry, C. A. C., and who was the first member of the club to volunteer for foreign service.

Local Laconics.
Louis J. Jordan, of C. company, Pawcatuck, Connecticut, has been among those selected for military service by draft.

Rev. Edward Curry, pastor of Grace Methodist church, will leave today (Tuesday) for Porterville, Ohio, to visit his aged mother and incidentally recuperate after a long illness. Every lawyer of Westerly was at the opening session of the superior court at Kingston, Monday, and the session will be held at Westerly.

The Gayety club held session at the home of Miss Helen A. Hoxie, of Liberty street, Pawcatuck, and elected Miss Rita O'Connell, president; Miss Anna Trant, secretary; Miss Joan Sullivan, treasurer.

The Imperial band, C. company, Connecticut Home Guard, the Portuguese Rifles, and the people of Stonington borough generally, will unite in giving the borough boys, who have been drafted for service, a hearty send-off on Thursday morning.

Benjamin Franklin Evans died suddenly from heart trouble Saturday night at his home in Canal street. He came to Westerly from Colorado two years ago, and was husband of Mary Frost Ormsby, lecturer and literateur. He was born in Hogsburg, Franklin county, N. Y.

The Westerly contingent of the draft from the First District, and who were ordered to report at East Greenwich, Tuesday, have been permitted to remain in Westerly, until Wednesday morning, and take the train from here direct to Providence where the Rhode Island quota will be mobilized.

At the annual meeting of the Westerly C. T. U. W. C. T. U. officers were elected: Mrs. Jennie Parker, president; Mrs. William D. Howard, Mrs. Harriet Griffin, vice presidents; Mrs. M. Edith Burdick, recording secretary; Elizabeth P. Nichols, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Jennie Nichols, treasurer.

Through Attorney Everett A. Kingsley, the Federal Feltling company has filed petition with the Westerly town council, asking exemption for the company on the plant the company is now building in Canal street. It is of brick, 68x147 and two stories high. The company has for years operated a plant in Clark's Falls, Conn., Office Donath, of Mystic, brought

YANTIC

Mrs. Edward Flynn Able to Return From Hospital—Case of Diphtheria on Main Street—Village Mourns the Death of Claudius V. Pendleton.

Mrs. Edward Flynn, who has been a patient at W. W. Backus hospital for the past month, has returned to her home here, much improved in health.

Case of Diphtheria.
A case of diphtheria is in the village in one of the tenements on Main street opposite the stone mill. The Phillips school is closed and was fumigated Monday and the house quarantined. Yantic visitors to Stonington have noted the activities in the shipyard there. Work is begun in one large wooden ship, several have been overhauled, one five-masted schooner is ready for equipment and 25 carloads of ship timbers were at the station to be unloaded.

OBITUARY.

Claudius V. Pendleton.
In the death of Claudius Victor Pendleton, Yantic loses one of its prominent citizens.

Mr. Pendleton had been at his home here for the past three years, suffering from an aggravated form of throat trouble and as he has been about his life's condition was not thought serious.

While having a coughing attack at midnight Sunday Mr. Pendleton arose to take his medicine and died shortly afterwards.

Mr. Pendleton was born in Bozrah September 12, 1859, the son of Charles Marsh Pendleton and Susan Ringham and was the youngest of four children. He entered Norwich Free Academy in 1885 and was graduated in 1889, specializing in mechanical engineering. He went west and was employed by railroad companies where he was having great success across the great central plain and western plains two years. Returning east he entered Sheffield Scientific school in 1891. He was graduated from Yale with the class of 1894.

March 20, 1879, Mr. Pendleton was united in marriage with Miss Phoebe J. Bailey. They resided in Bozrah for a number of years, Mr. Pendleton following his work in different parts of the country.

About thirty-five years ago Mr. and Mrs. Pendleton moved into the village of Yantic, buying the Hunting-ton property on Main street, where they have since resided. Mr. and Mrs. Pendleton is survived by his wife and son, Claudius Victor, Jr., and two brothers, R. B. and Chas. A., of Wauwecus Hill.

Social and Personal.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Saltzer and son Frederick of Wakefield, R. I., were guests Sunday at Pine Tree cottage. Mr. and Mrs. Fee and son, Morton Fee of St. Hyacinthe, Quebec, are spending the week in Yantic with Mr. and Mrs. James M. Morton.

Andrew Warner of New London is spending a few days at the Towers. Mr. Sunday at Pine Tree cottage. Mr. and Mrs. Elias Stockett entertained at dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. George Clark and daughters, Jane and Virginia of Norwich.

Students at Academy.
Alfred Brown and Catherine Murphy are local students who have entered Norwich Free Academy this year.

David Morton of Broadbrook was a recent guest of his brother, J. M. Morton.
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith have returned from a two weeks' stay at Onset Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. John Brissette have returned from a week's stay at Onset.
